

Innovations in Nursing Telehealth: Chronic Disease Management and Population Health

Charlene McFeeley, MSN, NP-C, LNC, NLCP, SANE, CME

The infusion of telehealth technology into healthcare and delivery has presented new opportunities for increasing patient access to care and decreasing costs, while improving desired care outcomes. The changing healthcare landscape presents a unique opportunity for nurses to fully embrace this revolution and respond. This breakout session will focus on the role nurses play in chronic disease management and population health.